Integrated Pollution Prevention and Control
Environment Order (Northern Ireland) 2002
Pollution Prevention and Control Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2003

Part A – Introduction and Basic Information Requirements

What is this form for?

You should use this form if you are a pig or poultry producer, and you have to submit an application to the Industrial Pollution and Radiochemical Inspectorate (IPRI) for a permit for an intensive livestock unit (as defined in Schedule 1, Section 6.9) under the Pollution Prevention and Control Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2003 ('the PPC Regulations').

This form is to be used for applications for a NEW permit, either a simplified permit complying with the Standard Farming Installation Rules (SFI Rules), or a non-standard application. To benefit from reduced costs and a simplified system of regulation under the PPC Regulations, you must ensure that you comply with all the rules.

You should refer to the 'Guide for Applicants for Pig and Poultry Rearing Units' when completing this form.

If you also undertake activities defined elsewhere in the PPC Regulations, you should use the appropriate parts of the form titled 'Application for a permit, variation, transfer or surrender' to apply for a permit for this activity.

What questions should you answer?

There are seven main parts to the form, you must complete Parts A, B, F and G. Part H is optional.

PART A is concerned with basic information such as who you are and the location of your premises. You should answer all the relevant questions in Part A.

PART B is concerned with information we need about your pig or poultry farm. The questions are about the 'installation', which is defined under the PPC Regulations as being the 'stationary technical unit(s)' where poultry or pigs are kept and any other location on the same site where any have a technical connection with the livestock unit and which could have an effect on pollution.

You should answer all the relevant questions in Part B. When completing Part B you should refer to the SFI Rules and should explain how you will meet the requirements of the rules.

PARTS C, D and E relate to Variation, Transfer and Surrender of existing permits and are not relevant to you. Separate forms are provided for these purposes.

PART F is concerned with fees and charges and other administrative procedures. Farming installations incur a standard rate of charges. Additional component charges may apply where other activities take place at the same site.

PART G of the form provides a checklist to allow you to assess whether you can comply with the SFI Rules and must be completed in all cases. It will also allow you to determine whether your application qualifies for the standard application procedure. If you tick any of the boxes in column 2, then this will mean that your application will be regarded as a non-standard farming application. If your application is a non-standard one, you will then be required to explain how you intend to meet the BAT requirement of the PPC Regulations for these aspects of the installation. This will require us to carry out a site-specific determination of BAT and hence, the non-standard application fee will apply.

Part H provides you with a checklist detailing the information that we require.

Copies

Please send the original and at least 5 copies of the application form and all supporting information. The copies you provide will be passed on to the statutory consultees who we are required to consult.

Other relevant information

If you need help: please get in touch with IPRI on 02890 569289 for advice on how to set out the information we need.

In several sections the form asks for a 'document reference number'. This is to allow you to prepare your response to a question as a separate document where more detailed information is required. Ideally you should compile the separate responses into a report that forms the basis of your application. You must make sure that the information you provide for each question is uniquely identified, and that the identification name or number is inserted in the appropriate part of this form.
